How to read a step

- Step, then what to type. Each step gives its badge, identifier, name, role and form, immediately followed by "What to type ▸" with the value of every field. The rows of its record tables follow at once, one line per row with the values in the order of the columns, before the next step.
- PDCA badge. P (Plan: identify, set, configure, assign), D (Do: execute, document, communicate, train), C (Check: monitor, assess, review), A (Act: decide, close, escalate). Inside each macro process the badges show its own small PDCA cycle.
- Values. Type the values as written; choose list values as written; dates are in the format YYYY-MM-DD. Long texts of record tables are shortened with … in this guide only.
- Completing. After typing, select Save draft to keep the draft or Complete step to finish it; the next step opens. A phase ends with its gate (checklist, then Go, Hold or No-Go).

Example — a step and what to type in it, as laid out in the full run:

The PDCA dynamic of the run

DynamicMS runs the management system as a Plan-Do-Check-Act cycle at three levels. The 12 end-to-end phases form the large cycle; each macro process has its own small cycle (the P, D, C, A badges of its steps); the process review closes the loop by turning measured data into reports and decisions that start the next cycle.

PDCA	End-to-end process	What it delivers	What it feeds

The loops that keep the system alive

- Measure and review (C → A). KPI values recorded in E2E-07 and E2E-10 feed the monthly process mini-reviews (MP-034.4) and the management review (MP-034.5); each decision becomes an action of the Action plan.
- Detect and learn (D → C → A). Nonconformities raised in operations or by audits (E2E-08, E2E-11) are contained, analysed and corrected in E2E-09; their lessons learned update documents and competences (E2E-05).
- Improve and restart (A → P). E2E-12 selects improvements and innovations; their results and the management review outputs are the inputs of the next E2E-01 (context, policy and objectives reviewed).
- Gates. Each phase ends with a gate decided by Top Management after its checklist: Go moves to the next phase, Hold keeps the phase open, No-Go sends steps back for rework.
