About this document

POWERACT Consulting proposes 37 templates for the documented information of an integrated management system. DynamicMS holds them as a library: each template lists its sections, and each section is either free text, an approval block, or a table or text filled from the project data (registers, step values, KPIs, risks, audits, nonconformities...). The application was seeded with these templates: 5,564 documents and 7,595 versions across 120 projects, ready to download in Word, PDF and Excel.

- Formats. Word and PDF documents have a cover page and a table of contents, except the policies (one page, no table of contents). Excel workbooks have a cover sheet and one sheet per table.
- Layout. The logo, colors, header and footer of the organization (Records › Documents › Layout) apply to every generated file, like a Word template.
- Versions. A document starts as a draft (0.1), goes to review, and is published by a person other than the author. A new version is either regenerated from the current project data or copied, then edited.
- Tenant templates. An organization copies a library template to adapt its sections and texts, or creates a new template; its copy replaces the library template in its own library.

Documented information required by the standards

ISO standards distinguish documented information to maintain (a document kept up to date) and documented information to retain (a record kept as evidence). The matrix lists what each standard requires and the template that answers it.

Using the templates in DynamicMS

Generate a document

1. From a workflow step: select Generate document, choose a template (the templates of the macro process are suggested first), then Generate. The draft is linked to the step and appears under Documents of this step.
2. From Records › Documents: select New document, choose From a template, filled with the project data, and the template.
3. From Records › Documents › Required by the standards: select Create next to a missing document.

Review, approve and download

4. Open the document: the Structure and content card shows each section with its data.
5. On a draft, select Edit the structure to add, rename, reorder or delete sections and to edit free text.
6. Select Submit for review; another person selects Approve and publish. The previous version becomes Superseded.
7. Select PDF, DOCX or XLSX to download the version shown. A draft is marked UNCONTROLLED DRAFT.
8. For the next revision, select New version and choose Regenerate the content from the current project data, or keep the current content.

Adapt the templates

9. Open Records › Documents › Templates and select a template to see its structure.
10. Select Copy to edit: the copy belongs to your organization and replaces the library template in your library.
11. Rename, add, reorder or delete sections; choose for each section free text, project data (and which data) or an approval block; choose the formats and whether the Word and PDF files have a table of contents.
12. Select New template to create a template from scratch; Retire removes a template of your organization.
13. Open the Layout tab to set the logo, colors, header and footer of every generated file.

Documents seeded in the demonstration

Every project of the demonstration has its documents generated from the templates that apply to its management system and standards. The scenario projects of the user guides keep a frozen copy of the content of each current version; the others are rendered from the live data when downloaded.
